Dry Bill Passes

With but few changes and none of these of vital importance to the effectiveness of the measure the liquor law enforcement bill last week passed the Senate and on concurrence by the House in the amendments goes to the Governor for his signature.

As it passed the Senate the drastic fine and jail sentence for first and second offenses are retained, as well as the penitentiary sentence for persistent violators, the only thing, in the opinion of the officers of the State-wide Prohibition Federation, which has backed the legislation from the start, that will bring about any real enforcement of the law.

With the enactment of another measure to prevent moonshining and providing a penalty that will be discouraging to those who have persisted in "turnin' their own corn into red licker," it is likely that, for the first time in her history, Kentucky will be rid within the next few months of the curse of whiskey.

James H. Combs, federal prohibition officer for Kentucky and his staff, continue to catch law violators in the cities, where officials are in sympathy with this portion of the criminal element, and the need of laws providing for the removal of such officials is emphasized by the success of Mr. Combs and his men in ferreting out such cases.

Coldest Weather of The Season

The coldest weather of the season was Monday morning when the thermometer dropped to one degree below zero. One consolation with the cold weather is that the fruit is not budding. By the way, that ground hog prognostication is good this time. Only two days of his winter is left, 'tis pleasant to remember.

When the house is placed upon these lots it will make a nice suburban home for Mr. and Mrs. Conlee. Thos. Edge and John W. Hendricks have the contract to do the moving.

Moves to Dayton

Henry Stepp had a sale of his personal property at Waltersville last week and has moved to Dayton, Ohio, where he will try high wage and high living in Ohio vs. low wage and cheaper living in Powell county. The result, they tell us, is just about the same, but you handle more money during the process of existence.

New Insurance Agent

Marion Atkinson, of Stanton, has entered the fire insurance business and is asking for the patronage of fellow Powell countians in this issue of The Times. This business is due Mr. Atkinson as he represents good companies and may be trusted to care for your protection.

John R. Neal and family have moved back to Clay City from the oil fields.

To The Poultry Raisers Of Powell County

The demand for poultry and eggs was never so great as during the past year and prices and profits never better. There are even brighter prospects for the owners of farm flocks during the next few years. Never before has improvement in one's flock promised such good returns, and there never has been offered a chance by which this improvement could be made so easily as through the plan of poultry standardization. If you are not familiar with the standardization plan, I will be only too glad to explain it to you. Those who started purebred flocks a year to two ago by getting a few settings of eggs through this plan at one dollar per setting are now finding a strong demand for their eggs at good prices.

In spite of the universal rise in price, arrangements have been made with reliable breeders to supply eggs again this season at the same price, one dollar per setting of fifteen eggs. These breeders have all had their flocks rightly culled, hence you will be assured of vigorous chicks from good laying stock. While these are utility birds and not of show room type, they are of such size and color that anyone may be proud to have them on the farm. At this extremely low price you cannot afford to miss getting a start this year, hence you should order several settings of purebred R. I. Reds, the standard variety for this county.

If you prefer to get day-old chicks and thus secure an earlier start and avoid all of the trouble with setting hens, I can see that your order is filled. The chicks would be of good, purebred stock. They would come by mail direct to you at 25 cents each. No orders can be taken for less than 25 chicks.

Yours very truly,
H. H. Harrison.

Old Clay City Citizen Dead

Ed L. Edwards, formerly of this city, died at his home in Dayton, Ohio, March 3rd.

He later moved to Dayton, and established himself in the lumber business under the firm name of E. L. Edwards Lumber Company, which is still in existence.

A Good Measure

The Times is for every letter of the measure, and if this as a law is enforced, it will lighten the burden from the shoulders of many oppressed workmen. The professional loafer is a menace to any community.

Good health is the most important asset of life. Without a vigorous, strong body and a keen clear mind, true happiness and enjoyment are impossible.

Thousands of men and women have been restored to vigorous health and lasting happiness by Gude's Pepto-Mangan. This beneficial blood tonic contains the very properties so vitally needed to improve the blood. Pepto-Mangan, if taken for a few weeks, will enrich the blood and create thousands of the tiny red blood cells that are so necessary to carry nourishment and strength to every part of the body.
